

Books are the windows through which we witness the lives we've never lived, the dreams we've yet to chase, and the wisdom we've yet to aquire.

